WHY: More pets become lost during the July 4th holiday than any other time of the year. $10 Microchip implant with registration from June 18 to July 6. ID tags only $5!

- Make sure all fences and gates are secure. Keep your pet indoors, if possible, with curtains shut or windows covered. Secure them in a crate, if possible. Even walking them on a leash in their own yard during the fireworks can be lifesaving.
- Make sure your pet has its license or identification tag on their collar, including microchip information. Update all microchip and ID tag information if your contact information has changed.
- Check with your veterinarian about tranquilizers for your pet. Never use human medications.
- Turn on a radio or TV to help block out the sound of fireworks.
- Notify family or visitors if you have any animals that need to remain indoors so that they don't accidentally let them out.
- Make sure to keep your pets away from BBQ's, sparklers, fireworks, and citronella candles.
- Do not take your pet with you to large celebrations.
- Do not place glow ropes or other festive party favors on your pets. Do not leave pets unattended in costumes or accessories.
- Keep your pet hydrated. Don't forget to refill your pet's bowl with water during your celebration.
- When your pet is missing, check in person at the CCSPCA.
